C - Missão do LA	1. Mission Statement/Objetivos principais	ICS is a research centre of excellence in the social sciences, with the following aims in the domain of science and technology policy: innovative and top-ranking research, with bridges between disciplines, research institutions and other actors; applied knowledge and relevant contributions on problems of national and global concern, and public policies to respond to those challenges; dialogue between science and society, "open science" and knowledge dissemination; greater opportunities for research career development; international projection of knowledge produced, attracting talented students and researchers and international funding. The strategy for achieving these goals is six-fold. Combining anthropology, political science, economics, geography, history, social psychology and sociology, ICS: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1) carries out top interdisciplinary research, both fundamental and oriented to the demands of society and the public sector, on the challenges of sustainability, citizenship, social inclusion and vulnerability, and memory and legacies;</li> <li>2) supports rigorous academic research and outreach by organizing key infrastructure for gathering, handling, preserving and disseminating data: PASSDA (national infrastructure roadmap), ICS-Iscte Polling Laboratory, XLab Experimental Laboratory, ICS Observatories, Social History Archive, publishing infrastructure;</li> <li>3) promotes the academic research career by incorporating doctoral researchers on a permanent basis, so as to reach the threshold of 22% of the total in 2025;</li> <li>4) incentivizes varied extension strategies: appearances in the media and social networks, publications and events for wider publics, collaboration in public and civil society initiatives, open science platform;</li> <li>5) focuses on doctoral and post-graduate teaching, life-long training for non-academic publics and ongoing training for researchers and technical staff;</li> <li>6) places internationalization at the heart of its strategy, supporting and rewarding internationalization of careers, research, and collaborative networks, taking part in international funding programmes (Horizon Europe, ERC, MSC Actions), and basing its recruitment and evaluation strategy on open and competitive processes.</li> </ol> As an "Excellent" R&amp;D Unit and Associate Laboratory in the national science and technology system, ICS is devoted to scientific research, post-graduate teaching and outreach activities, but with a particular emphasis, given its commitments and responsibilities as an Associate Laboratory, to public engagement with society, to scientific employment and research careers, to internationalization. The following sections set out the ICS's strategies and activities, with regard to its specific commitments as an AL, in 2020-2030, to support public policy response, to enhance career development and to promote internationalization

F - Linhas Temáticas	1. Linha Temática 1	1. Designação da LT 2. Coordenador da LT 3. Contactos do Coordenador 4. Descrição da LT	Sustainability Thematic Line (STL) Mónica Truninger monica.truninger@ics.ulisboa.pt +351 217804700 Sustainability is a key pillar of ICS' current and future research, teaching, policy co-development and outreach. Oriented by the United Nations Agenda 2030 and its Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), ICS is committed to a research approach that sheds light on the complexity of a desired transition to sustainability, that mobilizes both key stakeholders and citizens, and that informs the development and implementation of the necessary policy solutions. ICS' STL researchers explore a plurality of themes, methodologies and objects of study concerning environment-related perceptions, practices, politics, policies and governance. Internationally recognised STL researchers are often requested to engage directly with key advisory bodies, public administration institutions and agencies at the national, regional and local level. Frequently at the centre of key sustainability public policy co-development processes, ICS is a top sustainability knowledge-broker institution in Portugal.
	2. Linha Temática 2	1. Designação da LT 2. Coordenador da LT 3. Contactos do Coordenador 4. Descrição da LT	Citizenship Thematic Line (CTL) Pedro Magalhães pedro.magalhaes@ics.ulisboa.pt ; +351 217 84 700 Traditional notions of citizenship are being challenged by important transformations in contemporary politics: increasing societal diversity, increasing political and economic supranational integration, and increasing awareness of deficits in the quality, transparency, and impartiality of democratic institutions. This combination of developments is at the root of backlashes of different sorts, expressed in extremist and populist movements, feelings of political disaffection, illiberal pressures for the transformation of political regimes, and struggles around the very definition of who belongs to the political community. Against this backdrop, the Citizenship thematic line (CTL) aims at making ICS a producer and communicator of research evidence on the topics of rights and political equality, democratic representation and participation, and the quality of governance. CTL's research agenda is oriented towards addressing emergent policy-relevant research challenges related to the reduction of all kinds of political inequalities and the need for effective, accountable, and inclusive institutions of governance. This linkage between research and policy has been obtained through active engagement with a variety of actors in the private, public, and non-profit sectors, contributing to the identification of new issues, monitoring of developments, and active support for evidence-informed policymaking.
	2. Linha Temática 2	1. Designação da LT 2. Coordenador da LT 3. Contactos do Coordenador 4. Descrição da LT	Inclusion and Vulnerabilities Thematic Line (IVTL) Sofia Aboim sofia.aboim@ics.ulisboa.pt ; +351 217804700 Fostered by the Covid-19 pandemic, economic and social inequality thrives where other disparities take root, running along several intersected axes: including gender, generation, race, ethnicity, sexual orientation, disability, life stage or the existential conditions for human and non-human dignity and recognition. In times of turmoil, the IVTL: (1) examines the multiple barriers to inclusion of vulnerable groups and seeks to identify the obstacles that marginalised and disenfranchised communities and individuals face; (2) analyses the effects of demographic, social, economic and environmental transformations upon living conditions, family organisation, labour regimes, institutional arrangements and public welfare; (3) produces and implements solutions for addressing problems surrounding social exclusion and disadvantaged groups, like children, youth, seniors, disabled individuals, sexual minorities, lone parents, NEETs, precarious workers or animals facing natural disasters. While seeking to promote inclusion and contribute to effective policymaking, the IVTL understands the complexity of inclusion, a concept often mobilised in disparate ways by politicians, activists and academics alike. Establishing a grounded connection between fundamental research, applied studies and policy interventions, the IVTL aims to contribute to designing and implementing inclusive policies that are underpinned by a research-based definition of inclusion. For that reason, the IVTL follows a bottom-up approach that privileges collaborative thinking and engages citizens from various vulnerable communities to produce co-designed policies in tandem with decision-makers and stakeholders.
